Turning the Pages

IMAGINE the history of Delaware Valley College as a large book. Some pages were written long ago while others wait to be filled. Celebrating the Centennial of Del Val is just like flipping back through the pages of our history book to catch a glimpse of the past. We also wonder what the future holds and what will be seen on the pages yet to be turned. This year marks a transition for Delaware Valley College. We are moving from the first 100 years and turning the Distracted only by the lapping of water and the quacking of ducks, this student reads a textbook at Lake Archer, a common retreat for residents and commuters. Many student projects involve the lake, either wildlife studies in Ecology or building a deck for Landscape Construction.

Del Val Resident Assistants work and play as a team. RA's Carrie McGill, Kristen Hughes, Steph Townsend, and Lynnann Inlow enjoy the calm before the falls on the log flume during RA training.

Football players Mike Collins and Robert Rivera check out their on campus mail. Flyers from clubs to their members or advertising events get to students through the campus mail system.

Mariah Krauter, Chair of the Service Counsel, tallies up the number of recruited volunteers for the AidsWalk held in Philly. During the Service Counsel's first year of existence, it has sponsored such activities as the Aids Superdance and participated in a Day of Caring at the Tabor House.

pages to see what is yet to come.

Perhaps one of the most prominent transitional forces of this year is the ongoing Presidential Search. During this search, Joshua Feldstein, a man affiliated with DVC for many years, served as the Interim President. Certainly, a new chapter will begin when the new president is in place.

As Del Val adds this year to its history, some events will stand out. This year, several administrators such as Associate Dean Don Rosenblum, Dean of Enrollment Management James Hirsch, and Computer Services Director Richard Lazarus, left Del Val to follow other pursuits. Sadly, several people affiliated with DVC passed away. Both Dr. Maureen Bochierri and Football Coach Chris Bockrath were killed in tragic car accidents. Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Art Poley, passed away after an extended illness.

This year Dean Vincent reorganized the Dean's office and Dr. Dominic Monteleone filled the new Associate Dean for Academic Administration position.

Construction and remodeling have been extensive on campus this year. A falling tree nearly demolished Alumni House, which has been rebuilt for new uses. The addition on Mandell started with broken water and gas pipes and will continue through the summer. The Allman Building and the David Levin Dining Hall were remodeled and spruced up. New greenhouses are planned in memory of Art Poley and a new sheep barn has been built out at Farm 3.

Academic changes occurred in the Equine Science curriculum, and the credit standing for organizations such as A-Day and SGB came up

Dr. James Miller demonstrates the "magic" of science to a small crowd during Homecoming. This activity was offered for alumni and their children as an alternative to watching one of the sports games or tailgating.

Since Alumni Lane is closed to vehicular traffic, students like Becky McElhaneey and Jen Berryman can safely walk across campus. During this year, yet another gate has been taken down and replaced, this time with signs warning of fines for violation of the policy.

for review. A Master's of Education program has been planned. The Retention Committee met over Holiday break to discuss why students withdraw from Del Val.

New technology on campus includes E-mail accounts, radio station improvements, and the return of the TV station.

This year has certainly filled its pages with events that will change Del Val forever. As each of us turns to the next page in our life history, let us look back on the pages we filled here at DVC often and with fond memories of the good times and good friends.

1997 Dedication to Dr. Michael Garrett

The 1997 Cornucopia staff dedicates this year's Cornucopia to a professor who enjoys chemistry and enjoys teaching the students of Delaware Valley College, Dr. Michael Garrett. Dr. Garrett received his undergraduate degree at the University of California and his doctorate from the University of Illinois. He was hired at DVC in September 1970 to team teach General Chemistry with Dr. Joseph Stenson and Dr. Edward Goldberg. This "team" hosted a radio show the night before an exam to answer any last minute questions called in by the students. These professors enticed students to listen to the radio show by playing the latest hits.

When Dr. Garrett first came to Del Val, he and Dr. Stenson shared an office in the basement of Ulman, when the infirmary was on the first floor and the wrestling room was down the hall. This office was plagued by junk mail avalanches that occurred when the door was slammed. Dr. Garrett used a meter stick with the "scientific" units of "avalanche" and "fusion" to measure how high the pile grew and to predict when it would topple. Off hours, Dr. Garrett and Dr. Stenson hung out at a local establishment called the "Hub" in Doylestown and drove around in his Triumph.

Dr. Garrett's colleagues consider him a safety conscious professor who is sensitive to student concerns. His teaching load consists of General Chemistry, Physical Chemistry, Advanced Physical Chemistry, and Descriptive Chemistry. Over the years, Dr. Garrett has worked with students on several projects. One of his projects was to capture on film the explosion between potassium and water to determine the kinetics of the explosion. Dr. Garrett reads magazines such as "Young Scientists" to remain on the cutting edge of Chemistry, Physics, and Astronomy.

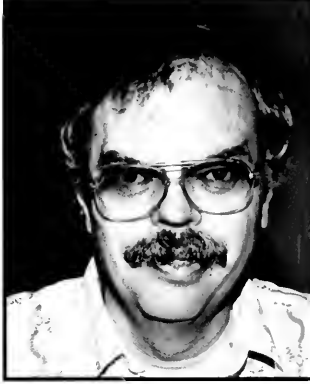

Dr. Garrett is a very laid back and unexcitable person. He has a sharp, wild, and interesting sense of humor. Although Dr. Garrett may seem lost in thought, his friends know that he is in tune with his surroundings. However, he is often used as an example of the absent-minded professor.

Dr. Garrett enjoys movies and novels in the Science Fiction genre and appreciates a good Sci-Fi movie for its artistic subtleties. He appreciates classical music and loves his dogs. He enjoys such shows as the X Files and Star Trek. At home, Dr. Garrett, as his wife says, is "a putterer". He likes to tinker around the house and build gadgets. He also enjoys playing computer games and reading.

Dr. Michael Garrett is a professor who leaves a legacy behind. Students will never forget him and chemistry may never be the same.

Dr. Garrett enjoys puttering around his house, which he shares with his wife Mary Kay. These photos show that he works on a wide range of projects including building a shed, painting in the house, and working on the roof. He also enjoys relaxing with his dogs.

READY, AIM, FIRE! Senior Laura Gurk concentrates as she attempts to win at this arcade game at the SAC member appreciation outing. SAC, the Student Activities Council which sponsors the entertainment on campus, wrapped up a semester of hard work at Chuck E. Cheese's.

Every Senior at Del Val must prepare a Senior Seminar within their major. Dairy Science student Jill Sanders researches in the library for information for her Seminar.

Hiep Luong stops in to the Cornucopia office to see if his Senior Memories and portraits are in order. As graduation approaches, Seniors must prepare by ordering cap and gown, diploma, portraits, and maybe a class ring.

Sherry McCarthy reviews for a midterm in one of her Business courses. Seniors often have tough schedules in their last year with difficult, upper level classes.

It grew to be time's burst of dawn. He gained a world; he gave that world its grandest lesson: "On! Sail On!" (From Columbus) Gincinnatus Hiner Miller

Over the years life has changed drastically. Through these changes, we have learned the true meaning of hard work. Along with the hard work we have shared events that caused both tears & laughter. As we look back over the last 4 years we now realize that without the hard work, laughter, & tears we wouldn't be where we are now. No matter how much we complain we know that Del Val has given us friendships & memories that will last forever.

Nash's 4 years at DVC: eating wings & drinking tea from the Vat-O-Tea with Big Mike. Doing the Kickin' Crosby Show and sacking in the hall with Tim. Daily visits to the sisters Heather and her Pig, Lori and her love for chocolate. Amy-Yo! Driving the Nashmobile. Halloween Haunting- is it raining out? Simone- keep your eye on the chairs. Hiking to the shack for class. Watching Scip play solitaire. Watching the construction of a barn in the Party Dorm!

The future always arrives a little before you're ready to give up the present. These past few years have definitely been an adventure to success. I'd like to thank everyone who has helped to make them more enjoyable. Especially my family and teachers. Just keep on plugging! Always remember where you came from.-NEVER SELL OUT! TRUTH, JUSTICE, & PLANNELS.

Wow! The past 4 years flew. Late night drives, orange jello, search for snow, deer spotting, the famous Chinese fire drill, let's go out on Valentine's Day, not passing, being thrown in the bushes, sliding under the holly tree, trying to jump that puddle, flipping my desk over, casino trip, look Heater a stripper, Bec are you 21 yet? To all my buds, I leave you with this thanks for all the memories, I love you all. Best luck in the future!

Enjoying the last tastes of summer...

Freshmen Amy Sprinkle, Kari Snader, Jen Buckley and Lee Ann Williamson enjoy dinner out on the lawn as part of the picnic dinner sponsored by the Student Activities Office the first week of school. The event is a part of Welcome Week and allows students to meet new friends at the dinner.

Liz LaPrince enjoys a ride on the carousel at Dorney Park, as part of the trip taken by the RA's during summer training.

Freshmen Noreen Houst, a resident, and Jeff Gargano, a commuter, talk about weekend plans on their way to class.

improvement, expansion, and change. But all too soon, it disappears, leaving us to turn the pages of another year.

Scott Wright wacks weeds and grass from around the electric fence to keep Farm 3 clean and neat.

Kristin Hofer, a Junior, cleans stalls in the barn. Care of the livestock is important in the summer when fewer Animal Science students are available to help out.

Classes are out and it's time for students to go back home, but for many Del Val students, work is just beginning. Every summer, DVC students earn hours for employment credit, a few extra dollars and valuable experience as they stay through the summer to work. Much of the work takes place on the campus farms.

These activities include working in the standard bred barn, mucking out stalls, feeding the animals, and harvesting at the orchard. On the main campus, students perform grounds maintenance, landscaping, and office work. Students who work over the summer are given a room in one of the residence halls.

The summer differs from the fall and spring in many ways. Without demand, both the dining hall and Schatzy's are closed. Students have to fend for themselves. The pressures of classes are reduced with only a few courses being offered over two separate summer sessions. Students have the option of getting ahead in their classwork while earning their work experience.

This summer, students lived in Berkowitz Hall, and many became a close-knit group. Summer friendships were formed by people who had just met but who hung out together throughout the long summer. Staying at Del Val for a summer is a different experience and gives students a different view of DVC.

Tom Denton has some apples, has a tractor, what more does he need? Hauling some of the harvest from DVC's prolific orchards is hard work. Food that is grown there will be sold at the DVC Farm Market on Route 202.

Patti Nuding feeds at the standard bred barn. Horses need to be fed a certain amount of food in a proper mixture to stay healthy.

Groundscrew members Bethany Bernard and Eric Andrews, Ornamental Horticulture majors, and Michelle Peterson, Animal Biology major, pause from their pruning on a hot summer's day. Students who work over the summer receive a free room, prompting many students to use the summer as time to catch up on classwork.

More than just summer school,
Great jobs, great people!

These are the times that try one's soul... Moving is a time of adjustment at any age. This is especially true for the students who attended Welcome Weekend. As parents, friends, and relatives swarmed the campus to help the students with their belongings, both began to feel a separation taking place. Students were on their own now, and this new life required many adjustments. For some, this was simply how to fit all their clothes into one small closet. For others, it included adjustment to a new state, new friends, and a new lifestyle.

Roommates offer their own set of adjustments for one another. Things like being neat or messy, being a morning or night person, and having to get up at three in the morning to go down to the farm all take a bit of getting used to. But college proves to be a growing period for students. Together, roommates learn to solve problems. They collaborate when they need to share the wall and decorate it. They adjust their schedules to fit around the other's. They even figure out what sort of food they need to stockpile for midnight snacks.

Move In is one time when security will allow you to park on the grass and drive through the gates. During Welcome Weekend, freshmen moving in to college becomes a family affair.

Roommates Jamie Assante and Tony Cirino check in at Cooke Hall. Over the summer, roommates are matched up based on preferences indicated on forms. During the spring semester, housing registration, based on accumulated credits, gives students the opportunity to change roommates and/or rooms.

RA's LynAnn Inlow, Matt Stonciper and Greg Hinderliter help sign freshmen in during Welcome Weekend. RA's help to ease the transition to dorm life by keeping down problems and encouraging residence hall activities.

Stepping out on your own Growing to Like It Here

Welcome Weekend was a great place to meet new friends! Jay Wright encourages new students by hopping along on a funnoodle race!

Moving in is always better with a little help from your friends and family! Even though living on your own can be great, nothing can compare to Mom's homecooking!

Although DVC is 100 years old, it is easy to see that it is determined not to grow fallow in its old age. On the contrary, the college is constantly expanding and growing to meet the demands of a changing world. This is best seen in the amount of construction that has been taking place across campus. From one end to the other, students were finding that bulldozers blocked their path to class. Some of the disturbances were caused by improvements that were begun last year, namely, the addition to the gym. Other

Work on the newest addition to the gym lasted throughout the better part of the year and landscaping yet remains to be done.

We're only getting better! Improvements Needed

improvements have been made out of necessity. Early this year a fallen tree instigated the remodelling of Alumni House at the main entrance to campus. Crews have been working throughout both semesters to expand and repair this building that may eventually be used for meeting rooms. At Farm 3, the old sheep barn was torn down so that a new one could be constructed. The new barn is much more reliable than the old building, whose safety was questionable. A new greenhouse was completed at the beginning of the fall semester as well. The latest round of construction results from a partner ship with Thomas Jefferson Medical School - an addition to Mandell School - an addition to Mandell. Although all of these improvements can be a temporary hindrance, it is well worth the inconvenience. The new gym has been well received by the student body, the Large Animal Science students are happy with the barn, and the other improvements have been a benefit to the college community. As the college continues to grow and expand into the twenty-first century, expect more innovative improvements. We can only get better!

Work on an addition for Mandell Hall began in December. The new wing will be used by Thomas Jefferson University for research.

Many students frequent the gym on a daily or weekly basis to enjoy the benefits of exercise. Physical education students will benefit by being introduced to a gymnasium which is fully equipped to serve their needs.

In addition to the benefits to the overall fitness of the college, intramural as well as varsity athletics are sure to benefit by an expansion of facilities.

The new gym offers a more extensive weight room, exercise equipment, and an opportunity for all DelVal students to get into shape. Senior Tara Miliziano works off the stress of a day of classes by lifting weights in the new gym.

Outside, the gym addition adds to the overall size of the gym. The addition now covers what was a grassy area for students to eat or toss a frisbee.

During three nights this past March, the gym was filled with the sounds of "God Bless Texas!" Students brought out their boots and ten gallon hats to participate in the country line dancing class. Although sponsored by the Class of 1999, the short course was open to anyone interested.

The class consisted of three nights of instruction by Natalie Shields. Steps such as the Watermelon Crawl, the Boot Scootin' Boogie, Slap Leather, and the Fourteen Step kept interested country fans kicking up their heels. Because of the strong country music interest at Del Val, the course was naturally well-received. Kelly Barnes, speaking for the 25 people who signed up said "It was a lot of fun and exciting!"

Instructor Natalie Shields shows Brendan Conway and Sara Case that line-dancing is more difficult than the hokey-pokey.

When moving into the residence hall in late summer, it's easy to forget something, lose your way around campus, or just become homesick. RA's deal with these issues and many more. For a Resident Assistant, their school day lasts 24/7. When they aren't in classes or keeping up with their own busy lives, RA's are answering questions and solving problems on campus.

RA's have a variety of jobs that people often take for granted. RA's coordinate life within their own residence hall, such as hall meetings, as well as activities with other residence halls.

This undertaking requires a large sense of community. This spirit begins to form in the summer when RA's return to campus for a week of training. Training includes various important aspects of campus life such as fire safety and people skills. RA's don't just learn, but also become friends.

One part of the RA training is the day at Dorney Park. Here, RA's can be themselves and get to know each other and their support staff. Since RA's help to communicate campus events with residents, it is important that they have a good relationship with the Office of Student Life. One week may not seem like a lot of time to train an RA, but they are constantly learning. With each week, residents demand many things from an RA which requires incredible time management.

Community Builders Resident Advisors

Try to find a commuter student it is almost impossible to find them. Commuters make up about half of the DVC students and include people with all different types of living situations. While a resident is known to eventually return to their residence hall, a commuter can be found just about anywhere! From watching "The Newlywed Game" in the commuter lounge, to the library, to working out in the gym, commuting students make the most of their time on the DVC campus. Many commuters have either a job or a family which keeps them busy in their after-school hours, and some have both!

With many obligations, being a commuter can sound confining, however to some, having the freedom to come and go whenever they please proves to be a very liberating experience.

Ornamental Horticulture majors Steve Miller and Wyatt Coutlee study in between classes in the commuter lounge

Maybe she doesn't have to worry about rain, sleet, snow, or hail, but Rachel Martin makes her appointed rounds for the DVC Post Office by delivering commuter mail to the hundreds of mailboxes which line the wall in the commuter lounge.

There is a bit of a challenge for a commuter to stay involved at DVC. While residents can conveniently walk over to activities and club meetings, a commuter often has to make a return trip to school after stopping at work or home. Commuters believe that it is worth the effort, however. Many hold prominent positions in student government and in the clubs on campus.

Commuters aren't excluded from all the fun either. Commuters come back to campus and enjoy parties, dances, and socials just as much as the rest of the students do. Whether travelling between work and family obligations, or just gaining some space from campus, commuters know the ins and outs of balancing school and home life.

Commuting Students A Fine Balance

With their eyes fixed on their work, Jan Edm and Jon Geschan share a table to study before class. As students move off campus, the post office has to prepare a place for them among the ever-growing row of cubbies.

Regina Pellegrin, Kristen Hoffman, and friends relax between classes by watching TV in the commuter lounge. Some choose to use their break to do homework, while others spend the time napping or talking to friends.

Sylvia Stottlemire-Dempsey, a Senior in Food Science, could be pondering anything as she walks over to the commuter lounge - why the snow fell so late this year, if she'll have her senior seminar ready, or even what to make for dinner.

Del Val's Blood Drives This Blood's for You

Sean Gallagher carefully answers questions for a Red Cross nurse before she takes his blood. The Red Cross will not take your blood if you've been under medication or are deficient in iron. Questions like those Sean is answering help ensure a safe blood supply.

Chuck Roohr asks about his progress, and when it will be over, as he donates one of the hundreds of pints collected by Del Val at each drive.

Various clubs and organizations conduct registration for the Blood Drive. Potential donor Jessica Butler talks with Lisa Karkoska, Kristen Hughes and Brad Halter.

Through the continued organization by Kristen Hughes, DelVal participated once again in a successful blood drive to help the American Red Cross. Various clubs showed their support through posters, banners, signs and registration service hours. A number of club members also signed up to donate.

Over 100 people signed up to participate and around 80 were able to give blood. As blood banks face increased shortages, both winter blood drives are crucial to helping the community. The American Red Cross has presented the College with a plaque commemorating its 8th Annual Blood Drive.

None of the profound generosity could have been possible without the help of so many organizations. Kristen Hughes has served as Blood Drive Chairperson for the past three years. It is dedication such as this which allows Del Val to claim itself as a pillar of service to the community.

It only hurts a little. Sophomore Food Science student Lori Gregalis is willing to donate blood to the American Red Cross. Through DVC's two annual drives, over 190 pints of blood were donated by members of the College Community and from folks in the surrounding areas.

Senior Jonathan Fox squeezes his arm to help slow the blood flow after giving blood

Most people only think of Del Val as a day school. Although much of the learning goes on during the day, a recognizable portion of it takes place during the night classes offered by Continuing Education. Students enrolled in these classes consist of Seniors who are trying to make up classes, those juggling full-time jobs, or adults taking a course for general knowledge.

The Continuing Education program utilizes many of the Business and Liberal Arts staff to offer core courses and degrees. Programs include Business Administration, Computer Information Systems, Math, Criminal Justice, Environmental Landscape Design, Education, Chemistry and Biology. Traditional agriculture courses are not available.

Students enrolled in Continuing Ed appreciate busy schedules. Many are parents returning to school to further their career and must balance work, school, and family.

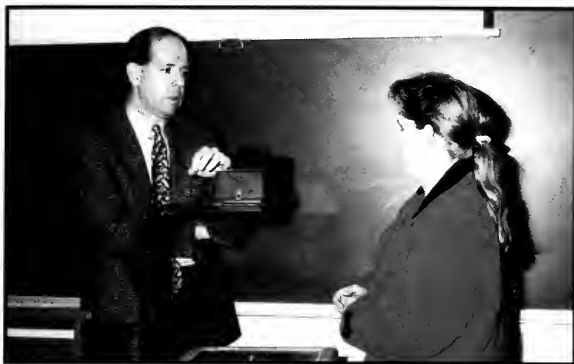

Many of Del Val's Continuing Education students are Business majors. As a result, Michael Simone's "International Trade" class is well attended.

Senior Susan Duchnowski gets a helpful tip from instructor Neil Hilbert during class. Susan is taking this Business course in order to graduate on time.

Linda Landis chats with Neil Hilkert after class about the various programs offered by Continuing Education. Professors are available to students to help them plan their schedules and decide which courses to take.

Students watch in rapt attention as professor Michael Gnida lectures for the World Cultures evening section. Many evening courses are restricted, not allowing day school students except under special circumstances.

Attending night school often leaves little time for studying. Lim Loung tries to review his material a little before class begins.

GAINS EXPERIENCE

Story by Chuck Erway and Fred Lundy

This 1996 men's soccer season proved to be a learning experience not only for the new team members, but also for the veterans. The one senior and four juniors learned to have patience with the younger members. The upperclassmen also give the younger squad the experience needed to win at the collegiate level.

The overall record of 3-14 (1-5 in the MAC) does not show the vast amount of experience gained by the underclassmen. Five of the team's losses came by only one goal.

This experience was quickly used to better the team. The win over the Aggies shines as a season highlight. The Aggies exploded on offense, for five goals.

Throughout the season co-captain Bryan Purcaro set the standard for the younger team to follow. Purcaro led the Aggies with seven goals, five assists, and 19 total points for the season. Perhaps the biggest game of the season for Purcaro came in the explosive 5-3 win over King's. He scored three of the five goals and assisted on the other two, giving him a total of eight points for the day.

Purcaro is currently the fourth all-time leading scorer in Del Val history. The junior only needs six points to become the school's all-time leading scorer.

Goalkeeper sophomore Mike McNamee had a spectacular day against Division II team Kutztown. Although McNamee made 19 saves, Del Val lost 0-1 to Kutztown. McNamee showed his strong will in this first game back after four out with an injury. For his play he earned a second team All-star bid.

Senior co-captain Jason Cassels chips in by giving determination to the team. He has been a starter for the Del Val soccer team for all four years. Over these past four seasons, Cassels has compiled 29 points to be listed as the fifth all-time scorer. Cassels has also recorded 13 assists over the past four seasons.

Team Battles for Playoff Berth

STEADY PROGRESS

Story by Fred Lundy and Matt Lery

In just its third year of varsity play, the Delaware Valley College women's soccer team finished the 1996 season with an 11-4-1 record, including a 4-0 mark in the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC)- Freedom League.

The Aggies battled seven-time defending conference champion Scranton for the final playoff berth on the last day of the season but came up short. First year head coach Kevin Doherty directed his team to school records in wins (11), consecutive games without loss (8), shutouts (8), and consecutive wins (4).

Sophomore sensation and team Most Valuable Player Emilie Replogle led the way on the field. She topped her 7-goal, 61-point freshman season with 12 goals and eight assists for 72 points this year's 15 games. Replogle's average of 4.8 points per game more than doubled her closest competition in the MAC. She was also named the conference's Player of the Week on four separate occasions.

Replogle broke school records (men and women) with her five-goal, 11-point performance in a 6-0 victory over Albright.

The 11 points broke the previous mark of 10, held ironically by Doherty in a game in 1985. Only 16 players in the history of women's soccer (all Divisions) have scored more goals in a game than Replogle did on that afternoon.

Sophomore midfielder Olivia Martin set records of her own with 12 assists in the season. She also set a mark with three assists in a game (later tied by Replogle). Martin finished the year with 14 points, and is the second all-time leading scorer with 26 points.

Jennifer Keim enjoyed a solid freshman season as the forward. She was second on the team with five goals and finished with 11 points. Midfielders Tracy Decker and Karen Lamarre followed with nine points a piece. Decker, a sophomore, connected for three goals while Lamarre, a junior, found the net on two occasions.

Senior co-captain Jeanette McBride moved from forward to keeper in 1996 and responded with a record-breaking season. McBride started 15 games and stopped 114 shots, en route to a school-record (men and women) 1.07 goals against average. Eight of her wins were shutouts, which broke the single-season school record and tied the Aggie career mark.

Defenders Quendryth Poore, co-captain Rebecca Ripley, and Tifanie Sbriscia were key reasons why the Aggies cut their total goals allowed from 33 in 1995 to 17 this year. Poore and Ripley, both juniors, added four points a piece. Sbriscia, a freshman, was voted Defensive Player of the Year.

Team Stays Positive Despite Loss of Players KEEPING UNITED

Story by Charles Erway

This year was an excellent year for the women harriers. On the other hand, they were a struggle for the men due to the loss of many runners. The women compiled a 5-2 overall record and the men's record was 0-3.

The women's team was led again this year by Becca Stavenick, a sophomore. Following close behind Stavenick was senior captain Lexi Loomis. Loomis has been a four year starter and a corner stone of the team; her talent will be missed next year. One surprise was freshmen Renee

Emery, who ran third for the team. Another freshman, Kristen Salvesen, ran fourth for the team. Junior Steph Townsend rounded out the top five scorers. This year's award winners were Lexi Loomis, voted this year's MVP, and Steph Townsend, voted next year's captain by her fellow team mates. Loomis and Townsend were also named MAC All-Academic. The special Debbie MAC award went to Kelly Musselman, who was injured at the beginning of the year and could not compete for most of the season.

On the men's side, the season was a hard fought struggle. However, leading the way was senior co-captain Mike Kiefer. Kiefer has been a four year starter and has had a spectacular career here at Del Val. Junior John Knudson was second on the team in points. John was voted this season's MVP and next year's captain. A bright spot for the men was freshmen Scott Kingston, who did not lose a step between high school cross country and college.

New Coach Pushes to Team to A RECORD SEASON

Story by Chuck Erway and Matt Levy

Del Val's volleyball team will remember this season for its triumphs. These spikers finished the year with a 16-10 overall record, setting a school record for wins. The six-game winning streak in the middle of the season, one shy of tying the school record, helped capture this triumphant record.

Junior Kelly Orser, a first season collegiate volleyball player, led the way for Del Val. Kelly's average of 1.1 aces per game ranked third in the nation for Division III after the regular season. She received the honor of being named Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Player of the Week.

There were many bright spots on the team, including senior Amy Thompson. Thompson finished her final year second on the team in kills (155) and blocks (26) while ranking third in digs with 290. This four-year starter and three-year captain finished her stellar career with 486 kills, 714 digs and 110 aces.

Other bright spots were freshman setter Terra Lutz, junior Tracy Mann, co-captain junior Monica Starr, and sophomore Rebecca Andrew. Terra Lutz led Del Val with 595 assists while adding 89 digs, 65 kills and 57 aces. She was named the Most Valuable Player at the Academy of the New Church College Tournament. Terra's performance throughout the year earned her MAC Rookie of the Year honors.

Tracy Mann, an asset in height, led the team in blocks (58), with 45 of them being solo attempts. She also finished third on the team in kills with 145, and was tied for fourth in digs with

192. Fellow junior and team co-captain Monica Starr recorded 109 kills, 192 digs, and 38 aces. Rebecca Andrew rounded out the starting lineup. The sophomore finished the season with 88 kills, 297 digs, 47 assists, and 43 aces.

This year's team award winners were: Kelly Orser for MVP, Tracy Mann for Most Improved Player, and Amy Thompson for the Coach's award.

First Year Under Head Coach Chris Bockrath Reconstruction Begins

Story by Fred Lundy and Matt Lery

The 1996 Delaware Valley College football season came to an end on Saturday, November 16 with a 48 - 33 loss at Lebanon Valley College. The Aggies, under new head coach Chris Bockrath, finished 1-9 overall and 1-1 in the Middle Atlantic Conference

(MAC) - Freedom League play.

Del Val's lone win of the season was a thrilling 27-24 triumph at FDU-Madison. The point total and 302 yards of offense in the victory were team highs until the last game's 33-point, 431-yard performance.

"I think the season was a learning experience for everyone involved with the program," Bockrath said. "We graduate just four seniors, so we should have a good number of players back. Tie that in with what will hopefully be a good recruiting year, and it gives us a strong nucleus to work with next season."

Quarterback Joey Shenko produced the sixth-best single game passing total in school history. The sophomore completed 18 of 34 passes for 262 yards and three touchdowns against Lebanon Valley. Shenko ended the season 62-for-166 with 823 yards and seven touchdowns. He ranked 10th in the MAC in pass efficiency (85.68) and total offense (102.2 yards per game).

Junior Bob Leach was eighth in the conference in receiving with 38 catches for 490 yards and two touchdowns. Leach's 86 career receptions places him fourth on the Aggie's all-time list, while his 1,151 yards ranks him sixth.

Fullbacks Brian Hearn and Bob Engle led the Delaware Valley ground attack with 273 and 262 yards, respectively. Hearn, a sophomore who played through a shoulder injury all season, scored one touchdown while Engle, a freshman, found the end zone on two occasions.

The Aggie special teams were sparked by the play of freshman Jose Valentin as he returned 19 kickoffs for 458 yards and a 24.1 average. Valentin's average ranked as high as 12th in the nation for Division III. Safeties Terrance Oliver and John Convey led the team in tackles with 88 and 82, respectively. Oliver, a junior, added three pass breakups while Convey, a sophomore, had a breakup and two fumble recoveries.

Senior cornerback Jeremy Lothian tied for ninth in the MAC with three interceptions. He also added 21 tackles and four pass breakups in his final season.

After the end of the season, the Del Val community, especially the Aggies Football team, was dealt a terrible blow. At the beginning of the spring semester, Coach Bockrath was killed in a tragic car accident. All of the Delaware Valley College community will dearly miss Coach Bockrath. However, the reconstruction that he started will continue to improve the team in the future, through his legacy of motivation.

DEDICATION LIVES ON

by Chuck Erway and Fred Lundy

Despite the field hockey's overall record of 6-12, the year was not a loss. In league play, the ladies only lost by one goal in each of their games. With the loss of only three seniors, the team will have a talented core of young players back next year.

By seasons end, the squad was able to put together back to back this year. This win pumped them up for a 2-1 hard fought victory over King's two days later. In this game freshmen Kristen Bonk scored both goals, with the winning goal scored in the last 19 minutes of play.

Kristen, an outstanding freshmen player was a candidate for the MAC-Freedom League Rookie of the Year. She was also named to the second team All-Stars. During the season, Kristen compiled a total of 12 points and was the second highest scorer. Leigh Poust lead the Del Val Aggies in scoring with a total of 13 points.

This year's co-captains were Tricia Stabler and Jonelle Buckley, both of which are seniors. Tricia was the defensive heart and soul of the team, her skills will be greatly missed. Tricia was voted MVP for the season by her fellow teammates. On the offensive side Jonelle has compiled a total a 27 points in her seasons of play here at Del. Val.

Another bright spot was the excellent goal tending put in by Mandy Hetzendorf with 126 saves this season. Excellent goal tending is not a fluke thing for Mandy, last year she set a single season record 185 saves. Mandy's all-time saves is a Del Val record at 369.

As you can clearly see Del Val has excellent talent to carry the determination into the next season and well into the future.

Young Team and New Coach lead to THE FIRST STEPS

Story by Fred Lundy and Matt Lery

The Delaware Valley College men's basketball team took the beginning steps towards a promising future. The Aggies, under first-year head coach Dave Duda, finished the 1996-1997 season with a 4-19 record overall, 2-10 in Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC)-Freedom League play.

The Aggies were winless in 23 games last year and lost by an average of 30 points per game. Duda and his young team (eight freshman, four sophomores) upped the win total while cutting the point differential to 10.6 per game. They also finished with a 4-6 record at home, the most wins in James Work Gymnasium since the 1989-90 season (4-6).

"I was pleased with the small steps that we took," Duda said. "We stressed throughout the pre-season that we have to take the small steps before we can make the big steps. We had a young team and watching them develop throughout the year gives us a good foundation to build upon."

One foundation lies within sophomore forward Kevin Burton, who in his first varsity season was named a MAC-Freedom League Second Team All-Star. The six-foot, three inch Burton led DVC in points (14.5ppg), rebounds (10.9 rpg), steals (2.0 spg), and field goal percentage (.529). He led the MAC in rebounding and was ranked 14th in Division III for the regular season.

Burton was the only player in the conference to average a double-double in points and rebounds. He posted 13 double-doubles on the season and led off tied for the team high in rebounding in 18 of the 23 games.

Freshman guard Buddy Maurer was second in scoring, despite missing 10 games with a fractured foot. Maurer averaged 11.1 points per game and led the team with 25 three-point field goals. He also added 3.5 rebounds and 1.7 assists. He was named to the MAC Honor Roll earlier in the season, thanks to back-to-back 22-point efforts.

The Aggies started a freshman backcourt for most of the season in Jim Greenberg and Jason Williams. Both played in all 23 games with Greenberg starting at point guard and Williams getting the nod at shooting guard 15 times. Greenberg averaged 6.6 points and paced the team with 103 assists (4.5 apg), including 11 in the season finale against Drew. He became just the fifth player in Aggie men's basketball history to surpass the 100-assist mark for a single season.

The trio of Charles Oakley, Chris Vreeland, and Dave Franck contributed for the Aggies as well. Oakley, a freshman forward, played in 21 games and earned the start in the last eight games of the year. He averaged 5.2 points and 4.3 rebounds per game while leading the team in blocks with 22.

Vreeland followed Oakley with 21 blocks and the sophomore center's 80 career blocks ties the school career mark. He also averaged 4.4 points and 2.7 rebounds in 23 games.

Franck started in 12 of 23 games as well and the sophomore forward finished with 4.4 points and 3.0 rebounds per game.

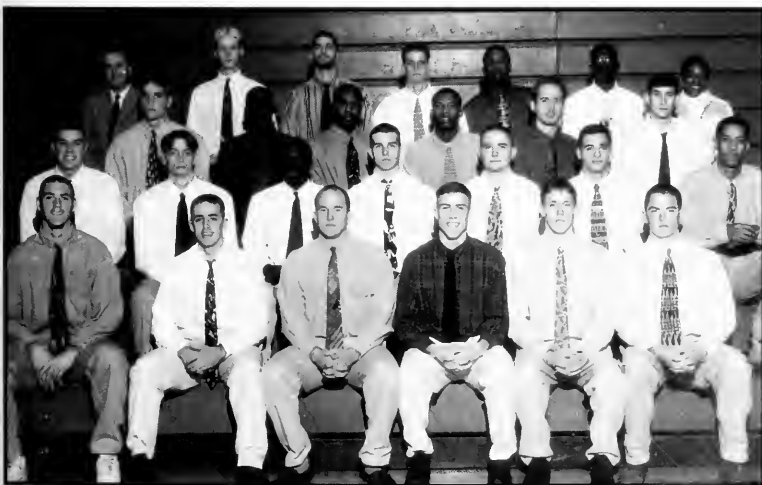

Carl Hines and Frank Binns saw their first varsity action and contributed 6.9 and 6.5 points per game respectively. Hines, a sophomore guard, played in 22 games and averaged 3.2 rebounds and 1.3 assists. Binns, a freshman, saw action in 11 games. He averaged 1.5 three-pointers per game and shot just under 35 percent from downtown.

The women's basketball team, under first-year head coach and 1990 graduate Laura Rotz, finished the season with a 6-18 overall record. Rotz and her team doubled the win total from last season and cut the point differential down from 19.1 to 7.5 points per game. "I was pleased with the season," Rotz said. "We were up and down at times, but my personal goal was to get respect back into the program and I felt that we did that. The girls improved individually and they grew together as a team."

One main reason for the improvement was freshman sensation Jeanne Waznak, who was named a MAC-Freedom League All-Star and Rookie of the Year. Waznak led the MAC in scoring (20.2 ppg) and free throw percentage (.882) for the regular season while ranking 14th and 12th in Division III for each category. She was also tied for eighth in the conference in three-pointers with an average of 1.5 per game. Waznak's 484 points was the second-highest single-season total in Aggie women's basketball history and shattered the previous freshman record of 301 set by Michelle Shirk in 1986-87. The five-foot, two inch guard also tallied the third-best single-game scoring total in Del Val history with her 34-point effort against FDU-Madison. Waznak paced the team with 65 assists, tied for the team-lead in three-pointers (31) and was second in steals (40).

Kristin Bucci gave the Aggies a perfect one-two scoring punch as the junior guard/forward ranked eighth in the MAC in scoring, averaging 14.7 points per game. She went over the 30-point mark twice during the year with 30 in a win over Gwynedd-Mercy and a 31-point effort in an overtime victory over Wilkes. Bucci, who transferred in from Mercer County Community College, tied Waznak with 31 three-pointers as well as tying for eighth in the conference in three-pointers per game (1.3). She led the Aggies with 49 steals and 24 blocks, including a record-tying six rejections against Ferrum. She also ranked third in both rebounds (51 rpg) and assists (49).

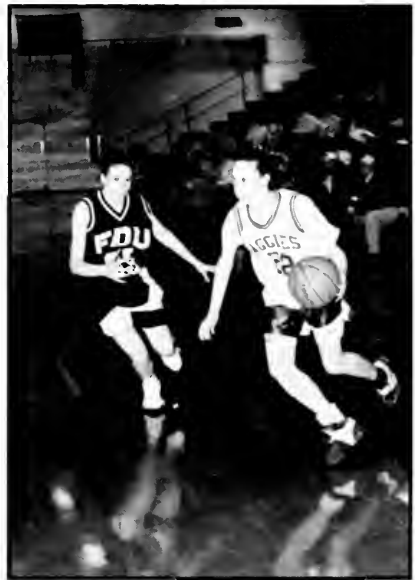

Senior guard Nikki Wagner ended her collegiate career 10th on the all-time scoring list with 677 points. She was third for the team in scoring, averaging 7.7 points per game, and hit the game-ending shot with less than five seconds remaining in the season-ending, overtime win versus Drew. Wagner, the 1995-96 team Most Valuable Player also averaged 3.5 rebounds, 2.7 assists and 1.5 steals per game.

Sophomore Stephanie Cullins and Junior Tracy Mann rounded out the starting lineup. Cullins was fourth in scoring with 6.6 points per game and paced the team with 6.3 rebounds a game. The forward was also second with 18 blocks and fourth with 22 steals. Mann started 16 games after fellow center Allison Siwicz suffered a season-ending knee injury. Mann averaged three points and 5.8 rebounds while blocking 12 shots.

Christi Corl provided Del Val with outside shooting off the bench and ranked in the top 10 in the MAC in two categories. The other two seniors were Tricia Stabler and Jeanette McBride, both contributing in the season.

Aggies Send Three to Nationals SUCCESS LIVES ON

Story by Chuck Erway and Matt Lery

This was another year of continued greatness for the Del Val wrestlers. The Aggies, ranked 21st in Division III and winner of the last two East Regional Championships, took second place to Lycoming. Del Val only missed getting first for the third consecutive year by 5.5 points. The Aggies had eight wrestlers place in the top six with a trio of wrestlers taking individual titles and earning an automatic bid to the National Championships. The trio consisted of Jeff Hoopes, Ethan Brownback, and Adam Staton.

It was Hoopes' third consecutive East Regional championship and national bid. The 126-pound Senior won three matches, improving to a 32-2 on the season. The three victories also boosted Hoopes' career mark to 101-15, making him just the third wrestler in the storied history of the program to reach the 100-win plateau. He joined 1996 graduate Brandon Totten (122-20) and 1991 graduate Mark Ambrose (106-6) on the exclusive list.

Brownback successfully defended his East Regional crown as the sophomore and fifth-ranked wrestler in Division

III at 177 pounds. He picked up four wins during East Regional to improve to 43-1 on the season and 74-8 in his career. Brownback has the highest win percentage for Del Val this season.

Staton captured his first East Regional title and national bid. The Senior won four matches to up his mark to 21-4 on the season. Staton, who transferred to Del Val from Shippensburg prior to last season, is 76-38 in his career, including a 41-16 mark here at Del Val.

Freshman Jerrod Weida and Senior Ron Zukley reached the championship finals at 134 and 190 pounds, respectively. Weida finished his first Collegiate campaign with a 16-6 record. Zukley finished the season with 23-9 and wrapped up his career with a 80-16 record and is eighth on the Aggie all-time victory list.

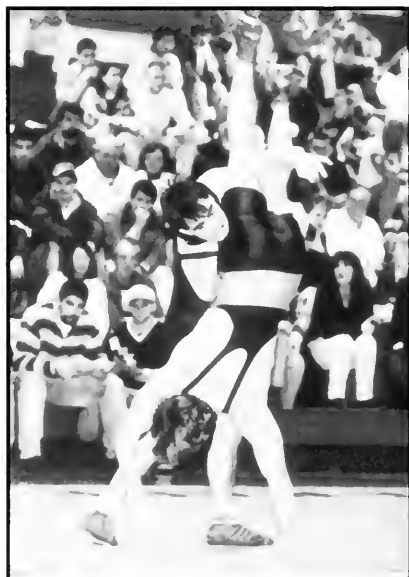

Freshmen Rich Kovacs recorded a 7-16 mark on the season while Matt Kleinle finished 23-8. Fellow Freshman Scott Cummins ended his first season with a 16-10 mark.

This year Del Val had three wrestlers qualify for nationals: Jeff Hoopes, Ethan Brownback, and Adam Staton. They put forth an excellent effort in their matches. They achieved the following standings: Jeff Hoopes (7th place), Ethan Brownback (3rd place). Also noteworthy is Hoopes' All-American Status at this year's Championships.

At the end of the season Coach Marshall was inducted in to the Pennsylvania Wrestling Hall of Fame. Others receiving honors for their hard work on and off the mat were Jeff Hoopes, Ron Zukley, and Ethan Brownback. They were named to the 1996-97 Division III Scholar All-American Wrestling Team.

Student Athletes Make the UNOFFICIAL TEAM

Story By Chuck Erway and Fred Lundy

For athletes here at Delaware Valley who didn't find themselves competing at the intercollegiate level, intramurals offered a chance to compete in the sport they loved. These athletes have a wide variety of sports to choose from to help promote physical fitness and enhance social activity. Many of these activities are sponsored by the athletic department, while others are sponsored by clubs found on campus.

A major intramural event was the "Night of Champions". This was sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship to promote a night of fun and good sportsmanship. The event was a huge success, with the involvement of eight teams consisting of at least five members.

At the start of the evening, teams competed against each other in alternating games of basketball and volleyball. This truly tested stamina and team work.

In the second half of the evening, teams split up to compete in individual events. These events consisted of: shoot and relay, football toss, and scooter relay. The shoot and relay consisted of two teammates, one at the foul line and the other at the three-point line. Each player would shoot from their position, get their rebound, and pass to the other teammate. The teams had a minute to score as much as possible.

The football toss was an accuracy drill where competitors tried to hit moving targets for points. They were allowed three tosses each.

The final event for the competition was the scooter relay. Three team members started by scooting across the gym to the half-court line, where they grabbed a baseball bat and played "izzy-dizzy." From there the competitors tried to finish their run to the other end of the gym, throw a ball against the wall, catch it, and then scoot back to where it all began.

The evening concluded with the two overall point leaders, dueling it out in a tug-of-war to find the "Champion of Del Val".

On any given night, pick-up games of basketball, roller hockey, and volleyball can be found forming in the gym.

Students take it upon themselves to start these games. These games are not only to help keep the students in shape, but a great stress reliever after a hard day of classes.

Above and Left: Students participate in many different types of intramural activities. Some play basketball as shown in the photos, other play volleyball, flag football, softball, and roller hockey. On any given night here at Del Val you can find students coming together in sports competition.

Team Reaches Post-Season

BASEBALL QUALIFIES

Story by Matt Lery and Chuck Erway

For the first time since 1984, the Delaware College baseball team qualified for the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) playoffs. The baseball team was rewarded for its record-breaking season by placing four Aggies on the MAC All-Star team while head coach Frank Wolfgang was named the league's Coach of the Year. They improved from last year's 7-15 record to 18-12.

Junior outfielder Matt Altieri earned First Team honors for the second year in a row while first baseman Tony D'Amico, catcher Frank Green, and designated hitter Mike Ricci were named Second Team All-Stars.

Altieri ranked fifth in the MAC in the regular season in batting and finished with a team-high .422 mark while setting a school records for hits (54), runs (50) and stolen bases (32) in a season. His average of 1.13 stolen bases per game ranked second in Division II. He started all 32 games, including the last 12 at shortstop to help strengthen the team's defense and recorded a .919 fielding percentage. He was named a First Team All-Star due to his .486 batting average, which led the conference.

D'Amico made quite an impact during his freshman year as he finished second on the team in batting (.389), slugging (.568), on-base percentage (.500), runs (32), RBI's (30) and stolen bases (5). He started 30 games and produced a .973 fielding percentage.

Green, a junior, picked up Second Team honors for the second time in his collegiate career. He hit .321 with four doubles, a home run, and 20 RBI's while committing just one error behind the plate.

Ricci, a sophomore, improved his numbers in a drastic way. He hit .376 with a team-high seven home runs and 25 RBI's after batting just .203 with no home runs and three RBI's in 1996. Ricci finished with a team-high .683 slugging percentage after placing fourth in the MAC for the regular season. He tied a school record on the mound by winning five games and added 29 strikeouts in 47 innings.

DVC set a school-record for wins by finishing 18-12 and qualified for the MAC playoffs. The Coach of the Year honor was Wolfgang's first in 21 years at the helm of the Aggie program.

Personal Records Set While TEAM STRUGGLES

by: Matt Levy and Staff Writer

Despite the setting of several school records, DVC's softball team finished the 1997 season with a 6-25 record overall and a disappointing 1-11 in Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Freedom League play.

The Aggies were producing on the field, but unfortunately it wasn't sufficient at game's end. The team set school records for hits (280), doubles (44), home runs (11), and slugging percentage (.449) in a season and also posted new game marks for runs (31) and RBI's (24) in a 31-out of Centenary College.

On an individual basis, the players also set records. Senior outfielder Stephanie McCormick, who holds school records for runs in a season (33 in 1995) and career (111) and is tied for the single-game mark with five runs, became the third player in Del Val history to surpass the 100-hit plateau for a career and finished second overall with 126 hits.

record books as she tied a Division III record with four doubles in one game.

Others setting records included first baseman Lisa Cascone. As a sophomore she currently ranks second in career batting average for Del Val with a .444. Kelly Orser tied for 3rd in the conference with an average of 1.07 RBI's per game. Kelly played shortstop and led the team with a .642 slugging percentage, which ranked her 5th in the MAC.

Player of the Year was awarded by the team to Kelly Orser who led the Aggies with 32 runs and 33 RBI's.

All-Star honors went to two players this year. Stephanie McCormick was named a MAC-Freedom League First Team All-Star for the first time. Second Team All-Star honors were received by Lisa Cascone.

The Aggies will graduate only three seniors this year and are hoping the experience gained during the 1997 season will provide for an improved record during 1998.

“The players on this year’s team were extremely enthusiastic to not only play golf, but to improve their game. With the players that are returning next year and some new recruits, I’m excited about next season.”

Under New Leadership Team Performs BETTER THAN PAR

Story by Matt Lery and Staff Writer:

As new head coach for the Aggies, Doug Linde provided the needed leadership for the team to improve over last season. Though their 4-7 record may not speak for itself, it speaks rather loudly when compared to last season's 0-12 record. The team's membership and those member's scores increased for the '97 season.

DVC was represented at the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Championships by Junior Chris Butler, Senior Eric Demurat, Freshman Todd Hippauf, Sophomore Kyle Kaufman, and Freshman O.J. McNamara. The Aggies placed 10th out of 13 teams at the MAC Championships. This is a significant improvement over last year's 12th place finish out of 12 teams.

Freshman Todd Hippauf led the team during Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Championship competition and finished with a 54 hole score of 239 and a 4th place medal. Todd missed winning the individual title by only 7 strokes, an impressive showing for the Aggies.

Hippauf was named Most Valuable Player by the team. The Aggies are looking for continued improvement next season.

Another Year, Another Coach

YEAR OF TRANSITION

Story by Matt Levy and Staff Writer.

Once again, the DVC Track &

Field team experienced a season of transition. Glen Leonard coached the team for the members. This was their second straight year with a new coach. Building on the previous season is difficult with the changes which accompany new coaching in a 2-2 record for both the men's and women's teams.

Student leadership for the team was provided by John Knudson, men's captains, and Genny Kuhns and Kelly Mussehnman, women's co-captains.

Though the team's showing at the Middle Atlantic Conference (MAC) Championships was not impressive, the men placed 7th out of 8 and the women 9th out of 9, some individuals performed well. Wade Esbenshade threw to a 4th place finish in the shot put and Jennifer Mills threw to a 4th place finish in the javelin. Ed Baniak had the best showing by placing in two events. He placed 2nd in the long jump and 5th in the triple jump.

This year's Most Valuable Play Awards were presented to Kelly Mussehnman for the women and Ed Baniak and Brendan Room for the men.

This year's team may not have placed as well as they would have liked in competition, but they certainly keep pace in the classroom. Over 20% of the team were named to the MAC All-Academic team which requires a 3.2 or greater GPA. Receiving this honor for DVC were Wade Esbenshade, Genny Kuhns, Jaime LaTourette, Jeanette McBride, Kelly Mussehnman, Scott Reedell and Ron Zukley.

The Memories and Magic of DVC

Homecoming 1996

On October 4-6, 1996, Del Val celebrated its Centennial Homecoming. The Rampage Pep Rally held on the Segal Quad started off the weekend, complete with introductions of the Fall Sports teams and Homecoming candidates. A fireworks display showed the DVC spirit in lights. Despite the chilly weather, many stayed for the country music played at the Dakkota concert.

Saturday's activities began early in the morning with the Homecoming parade, but not quite as early as last year. Changes were made in regards to this event. The parade started at 10:30 AM instead of 9:00 AM and the route continued through the campus by the gates at the old college entrance.

The theme for the parade was Disney characters. With this whimsical theme, club members became very creative in designing their floats. Many Del Val fans came out to see the parade go through Doylestown and return to the college.

The athletic fields were busy this year. Not only did fans enjoy the football game, but also soccer, field hockey, and volleyball. Our football team took on the Moravian Greyhounds on the main field.

During the Halftime Ceremonies, the DVC Cheerleaders performed some cheers and a dance. The Dance between the Halls of Goldman and Samuel ended the Homecoming weekend.

This year all of Friday's events were no closed container events. Student Life and Security reinforced the school's alcohol policy by requiring students over 21 to acquire a wristband for identification purposes.

Overall, this Homecoming succeeded due, not only to the teamwork of students, faculty, and administration, but also to the many new changes made in the operation of the weekend. Are these changes the beginnings of new traditions at Del Val?!

The Scare and Fright of Del Val

Story by Greg Hinderliter and KDB.

Halloween Haunting was held on October 23-26, 1996. The annual spectacle showcased 78-year old Lasker Hall as the Haunted Mansion, the Horticulture Building as a Horrid Cider Mill, and the DVC Orchards as a fifteen minute Haunted Hayride.

The event, chaired again this year by Greg Hinderliter, proves to be a consistent crowd-pleaser, or frightener. In spite of cool rainy weather, the event drew in nearly $9,000 gross this year, raising the overall total to $78,000 since the program's inception only a few years ago.

Assisting Hinderliter were vice-chairs Peter Dixon (House), Dwayne Murphy (Cider Mill), and Brendan Conway

(Hayride). The crew also welcomed Tim Vogt as the new staff advisor.

Halloween Haunting grew and prospered under the leadership of DVC's Development Office for several years before being turned over to the Student Government Board in 1995. Since then, the event has enjoyed continued success as a student-run scholarship benefit.

Many College volunteers helped make this a "spooktacular" event. Representatives from nearly every department on the campus volunteered time, storage space, facilities, materials, and countless other much-appreciated assistance. Numerous "cronies" supported the event by selling tickets.

Club participation was also phenomenal this year, with over a dozen clubs turning out each night to earn money for their scholarships and for credit towards the "Club of the Year" award. There was something to please everyone at dinner with the choices of steak, chicken, or vegetable lasagna along with the original salad, baked potato, vegetable, and dessert.

The hardwork and dedication put towards this event by the Semi-Formal committee and volunteers was appreciated by everyone who attended and deemed the event a success.

The Service Council, headed by Mariah Krauter, ran this event with help from various clubs and organizations such as Delta Epsilon Beta, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, and Alpha Phi Omega. The event, held April 4, 7 PM to April 5, 7 PM, raised close to $1000 for the organization, From All Walks Of Life. Many students came out to the dance throughout the night. However, just eleven amazing dancers stayed the entire twenty-four hours!! These supportive dancers were: Nancy DeBord, Jay Wright, Susan Pachuta, Kelly Conway, Patti Hillanbrand, John Browning, Kelly Barnes, Mike Imwald, Jules Abercauph, Mary Frick, and Allison Majewski.

Story By KDB. On April 9, 1997, Del Val celebrated yet another Founder's Day in remembrance of Dr. Joseph Krauskopf and Dr. James Work. This year's ceremony opened with a speech given by Dr. Frederic Blau, a Professor Emeritus of Landscape Design and a 1940 graduate of DVC. He spoke of Krauskopf's life and of how he came to be the founder of the National Farm School. Blau reminisced on his years spent as a student here.

This year in celebration of the Centennial, a Time Capsule was buried in the Student Center Courtyard. Many offices and organizations contributed to this piece of Del Val "history", which will be removed and added to in 25 years (2022). Items placed within the capsule ranged from dining service menus, calendars, and a tuition bill to a centennial diploma and a freeze-dried mouse from the Small Animal Department. Every aspect and corner of Delaware Valley College has been represented in the Capsule. Awards were presented to the following students and faculty/staff members:

Simply Heaven

1997 Spring Formal

Story by KDB. As Del Val tradition goes, the Junior class sponsored the spring formal. This year's theme, Simply Heaven, was thoroughly portrayed through the decorations that were simple and yet, set the perfect mood. To start off the evening, everyone enjoyed the dinner. The rest of the evening was spent dancing the night away to the various music that was played to accommodate everyone's individual tastes.

Ultimately, without the hard work and dedication to the planning and set up as well as clean up of this event from the Class of 1998 and other students, this formal could not have been such a tremendous success. Together they overcame obstacles and prepared an unforgettable evening for all who attended. This Del Val tradition will certainly continue for years ahead, something for each class to look forward to being a part of.

LORIE KOCHANSKI:
"Thanks to the... dedication of the Class Officers, OSL, and Mr. Mullins and crew the APR was transformed into a room that was 'Simply Heaven'."

49th Annual A-Day

Story by KDB. The 49th Annual A-Day was held April 26 & 27, 1997. This event is well-known to the Doylestown and surrounding communities, where families come to enjoy the various things offered to them here at our A-Day celebration.

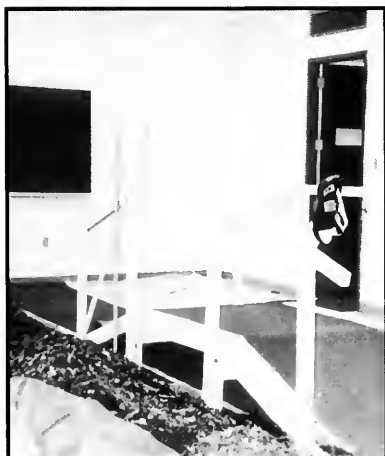

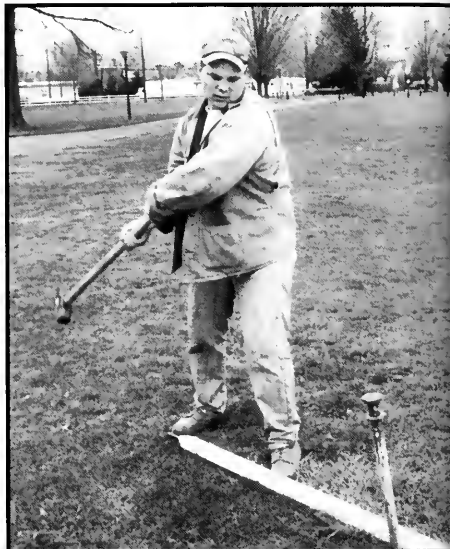

A-Day is an event that is planned all year at weekly meetings of the A-Day Committee. The committee is made up of representatives from each club and organization on campus and an Executive Team which is elected at the end of each year. This is the largest student-run event put on here at DVC. Everyone from students and staff to faculty and administration get involved some way or another.

The campus is completely transformed from a college campus to a fair ground and farm show of sorts. The set up begins the Monday before A-Day as booths and tents are put up all over campus. Once classes are over for the week, the desks are removed so clubs and organizations can begin to build their room displays. Each club is assigned a room, if requested, to put on a display that is educational and represents their club. Friday, the day before the event, is the biggest day for set up—classes are cancelled and students come out all hours of the day to do various duties ranging from painting booths to working on displays.

Many events happen on this campus at A-Day. Students run booths selling everything from fried veggies and pork BBQ to milkshakes and fries. Numerous craft vendors set up in the gym to sell their merchandise. Also flower arrangements done by Del Val students are put on display and judged in the APR.

A-DAY DEDICATION

Many students joined in the Livestock and Dairy showing that takes place both days. This year, Dairy and Equine showed on Saturday and Livestock (beef, sheep, and swine) on Sunday. Showing is an opportunity for students to prepare and present an animal that has been raised at one of the campus facilities. They are judged on two criteria: Fitting (the appearance of the animal) and Showmanship (the student's handling and representation of the animal). For some, this is a requirement for a class they are presently taking. This year we had a new attraction for all ages, a Mule-Drawn Carousel. It proved very popular amongst the crowds.

Ultimately, through the teamwork and dedication of the DVC community, A-Day '97 was a huge success and raised $111,000. This annual event was enjoyed by one and all.

Class Re-registration

Planning your life
for a semester

Class registration has changed over the past few years. It wasn't long ago that students had to stand in line beginning in the wee hours of the morning. Registration was done on a first come, first serve basis. Technology and a new system to organize students came together to increase the efficiency of class registration. With all these changes in registration, maybe in the future the master schedule will be on the campus-wide computer network!?

Horsing Around

At DVC

The Equine program at Del Val is well renowned. Students have the choice to earn an Associates of Science Degree or an Animal Science Degree. Their studies consist of breeding, driving, Equibusiness, farm management, riding, and training.

Every equine student remembers their freshmen year when they had to rise at the crack of dawn to muck the stalls and to groom the horses. Students can then further their skills by joining the intercollegiate riding team or studying abroad at Hartbury College in England.

Overall, the Equine program is another example of how learning is done at Del Val.

Story by Laurie Jones

The Business Department at DVC began in 1965 in response to the high demand for business graduates in industry. Over its thirty plus years, the department has added concentrated areas of accounting, computer applications and management. The Business Department was instrumental in beginning the Agribusiness major in 1983 and the recent Criminal Justice Administration major. The Business Department helps to make DVC a more comprehensive college and offers the opportunity to nonbusiness students to expand their curriculum by selecting business courses as electives.

Special programs that our Business Department initiated are the Career Day for prospective graduates, which began in 1972, and Students in Free Enterprise, which allows students to network with industry leaders and entrepreneurs and compete nationally against other colleges in team presentations. The department cooperates with area community colleges and the CHH Institute for students who want to enroll in our Bachelor of Science degree and brought about a joint venture of the La Salle MBA program on the DVC campus. As a business community involvement, the Department brought the Central Bucks County Chamber of Commerce Business Expo on campus, an annual event now running for a dozen years. Also for more than a decade, the Department has offered business courses on campus through the Prudential Insurance Company of New Jersey in Montgomery County. The business faculty has held major positions and board of director members in area chambers of commerce. The Department was instrumental in the founding of the Bucks County International Trade Council.

DVC business graduates have had much success in their careers. To mention only a few, some of our alumni are owners or partners operating medical supply firms, accounting firms, insurance agencies and construction firms, several are in the banking and investment securities industries; several are vice presidents of major national companies exemplified by Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Frito Lay; many have management positions in local, regional, national, and international organizations. These success stories show DVC's Business Department has an edge because of the advantages of small class size, the students' close relationship with their faculty, and the availability of internships for our students. ....CONGRATULATIONS ON 30 YEARS AT DVC!!

Brewing what's good

Story by Lori Gregalis

There are several unique courses offered here at Delaware Valley College such as Apiculture, Arboriculture, and Introduction to Brewing Science. The microbrew class began about four years ago as a result of student interest that stemmed from the wine making course. Due to the large interest only 15 to 20 students are permitted to take the course and the only requirements are that you have to be 21 and have a desire to stay for a Friday afternoon class. William Porter, the professor of the class says, "The main objective of the course is to teach people the basics of brewing beer and that beer can be enjoyed in moderation."

As a part of this class, beer is brewed three times a semester. The first batch consists of a lager, an ale, a stout, a bock, and a porter, prepared from beer making kits. The students learn the basics of brewing in this first session. To make this batch, they added sugar and yeast to a malt-hop extract and let them ferment. The second batch consists of lager type beers with different hops to show how different hops have an effect on beer. The final batch is a culmination of a semester long project.

This project consist of the students' choice of brew where they have to grind there own grain, make their own extract, and add their own flavorings.

As a general enrichment course, the microbrew class teaches a unique hobby to a wide range of students. Students come away with an appreciation of the brewing process and some home brewed beer.

Rebecca Stellenberg puts the malt-hop extract into a pot in preparation for the second batch of beer.

Ryan Basile measures out powdered sugar for the first batch of beer. When asked why he took this course he said, "Brewing has been with humans since the beginning of time. I'm just doing my part of being a human."

Dr. Maureen Bocchieri

Dr. Maureen Bocchieri was an Assistant Professor of the Animal Science Department for many years. Her untimely death saddened many members of the college community. Dr. Bocchieri was very involved in the Animal Science community. When she brought students on field trips, she made sure to show and explain things in detail. Well-educated in her field, she took pride and care in passing on the knowledge to her students. Not only was she well liked, but also respected. Students and faculty will miss her quiet manner and her involvement in the Animal Science community.

Coach Christian Bockrath

Christian was a proud and loyal 1970 DVC graduate with a major in Food Science. After a successful and lengthy coaching career at Archbishop Kennedy High School in Norristown, Pennsylvania, he returned to his alma mater to rejuvenate our Football program and to lead it into greatness.

He was always concerned about his colleagues in the various departments of the school, especially the Athletics. In addition to his concern for the faculty, Chris was dedicated to the welfare and educational progress of this student athletes.

Dr. Joshua Feldstein

Many of the Del Val athletes not only appreciated Chris Bockrath as a great coach, but also saw him as a father-figure. Considered one of the nicest people you could meet, Bockrath cared for his athletes not only on the field, but off the field as well. Bockrath, wanting to get to know his athletes as individuals, always had his door open for them if they had a problem. As a coach, he instilled in his players respect and pride for themselves and others. Coach Bockrath will always be remembered for contributions to the Del Val community and his inspiration to his student athletes.

Arthur Poley

Arthur Poley was one of our most loyal and highly dedicated alumni. The College truly his home during his student years, 1950-51, and his home away from home the rest of his productive life. He loved his alma mater with a fervent passion! He worked long and hard to ensure that the College remain independent and continue to make progress and offer every deserving student individual attention and the opportunity to acquire the best education possible. He loved the beauty of nature and was very proud of the College's history, mission and agricultural heritage. He contributed his time, efforts, energy and friendship. Arthur Poley made very significant financial contributions to the College and to other very worthy causes. He was a devoted and loving family man. His smile, embrace, firm handshake and true concern will always be remembered by all who were privileged to know him and to love him!

In the Spring of 1997, construction began on greenhouses built in his memory through money that he donated to DVC.

Internal Workings. An X-ray machine in Epcot Center allows an inside peak at Anita Snyder.

Dr. Doug Linde assists Marion Hugga and John Retalis on the techniques of surveying. Topographical Surveying allows students to learn the correct procedures and techniques to survey land.

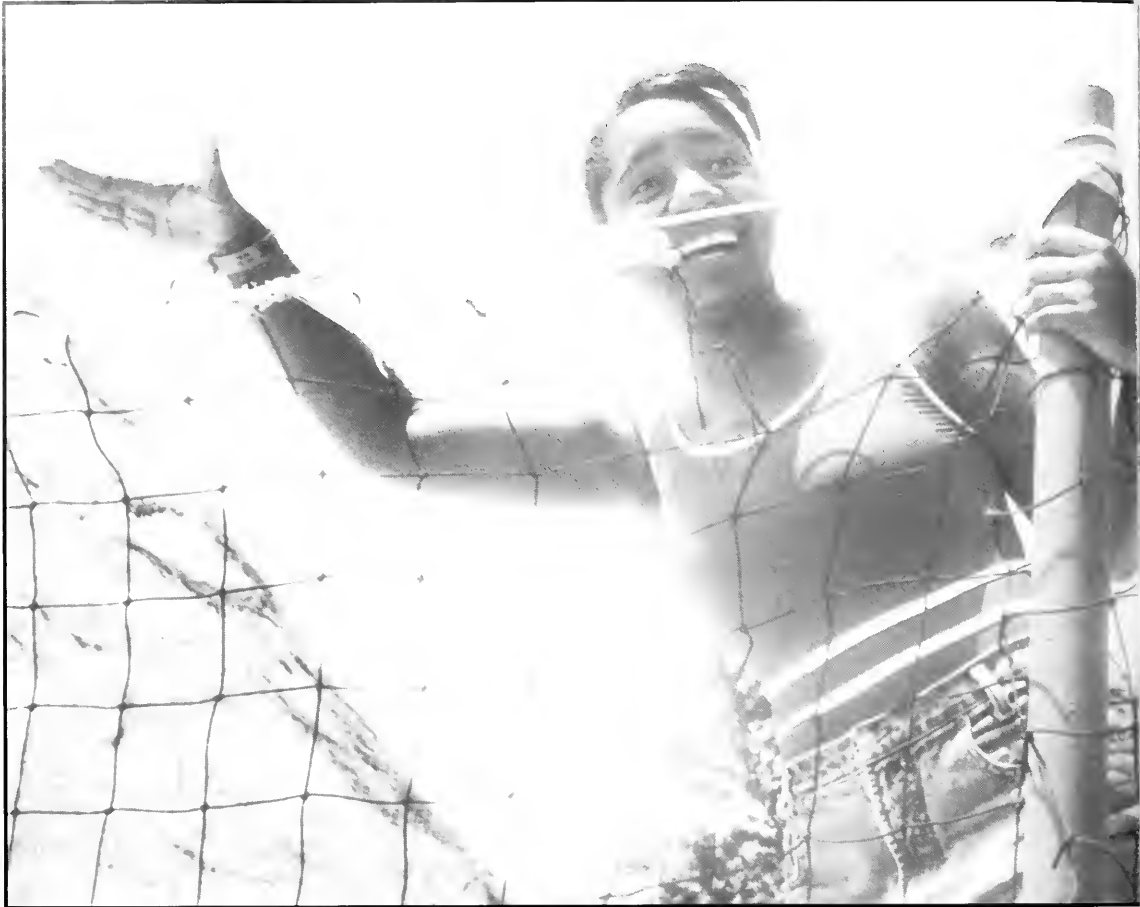

Martha Cheetam and Maggie Flynn cast their votes for who they would like to represent their respective class in Student Government. These elections are held each spring for individual class officers as well as for the Student Government Board. Ballots are found in both the Student Center and Feldman.

Kelly Barnes hangs out with Disney World's topiary Stegasaurus while attending the CMA conference, where Cornucopia staff members meet people from all over.

Senior Class President Jessica Thompson takes control of a game of volleyball by calling the shots while the Seniors visited Cancun.

Sunshine and Wind. Students take advantage of a perfect kite flying day and of the empty space over the wrestling and weight room.

Ryan Basile, Heather Hartzog, Joe Corona, and Carrie Preston enjoy some fall sun while on a day trip to Morris Arboretum. Students visit many of the off campus facilities located within the area that are geared either towards their academic or their outside interests.

Friends for All Times. Seniors Nancy Trenton, Jen Strauss, Michelle Meyer, Rich Adamo, Jaime Conrad, Laura Gurk, Steve Miller, Chris Shupp, and Dave Mertz reminisce over their years at Del Val while at a Senior Social. Many lifelong friendships are formed at college, even though people may move far away or go onto graduate school.

The Alma Mater

By the winding banks of the Neshaminy,
Stands our Alma Mater dear.
We look o'er your fields we love,
Cherished year by year.
All hail your colors, Green and Gold,
As they proudly wave on high.
Treasured memories fond and true
In our hearts will lie.

With your inspiration great,
Ever forward we will go.
Fearless of the tasks ahead,
Conquering each foe.
To you, our College, let us sing
Praises of your honored name.
Courage, strength, and unity,
Build an endless fame.
